

Assignments

Week 17, beginning 5/8/2006:

What we did and will do:

Tuesday: After another excellent presentation, we blitzed through O'Connor, taking an hour for what should have taken two or three classes, and then we saw a brief segment from Shakespeare in Love an imaginative, romanitic movie you should definitely watch as a treat after the semester's finished.

Thursday: Hand in your journals and compare-contrast paper!

With only two classes remaining, we'll go quickly through Hamlet by watching the movie with Mel Gibson, and we'll talk about differences between the movie and the text.

To Do For Next Week:

Writing: While there is no Hamlet paper requirement, there will be a final exam. I'll get your compare-contrast paper back to you by next Tuesday, which will give you a day to rewrite if you decide to.

If you're missing assignments, hand them in by Monday, May 22!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Presentations: We'll finish up presentations on Tuesday.

Reading: Read Hamlet, pages 1462-1558.

Final exam: Your final exam on Hemingway, O'Connor and Shakespeare's Hamlet will be from 1:30-3:30 on Thursday, May 18. Make sure you've done the readings and bring your notes and texts since, as always, the test is open book and notes.
